Introduction

The Hall of Monuments is account based so as long as one character has a title that can be displayed as a Statue, it can be displayed for all chars on that account and counts to the points for the HOM Calculator.

How to use the list

This list is broken up into two parts. The first part is the number of statues you have. Once you hit 40 titles /statues, you will have gotten all the points possible for titles, that can be put in your HoM.

The second part is all about the actual titles. This part is broken up into 3 parts, The name of the title, If you have it, and if you want it.

Also You will see Titles have different colors, the meaning of these are as follows.

This color means that the title is fairly easy to get, you may be able to buy or grind the points for most of these.

This color means some planning is needed to make it easier.

This color means that this title is based off of other titles

Survivor & Defender of Ascalon Tips

These two titles take a little more planning so they get there own special section.

Defender of Ascalon

In order to even have a chance at this title a player needs to start in prophecies campaign. The way this title is achieved is by getting to level 20 in pre-searing of prophecies. The only way this can be achieved is in an area that is found near Ascalon through a locked gate (Northlands).

You will need a person to unlock the gate while another enters. So in short, you need to players to enter. Often times people pay for another player to unlock the gate, often times these people are called gate monkeys. You pay for these players to unlock the gate.

With this knowledge you will need to either have a sizable sum of money or have a friend who's willing to open the gate for you.

Next, you need to have the proper build to be able fight several mobs if solo. Having a Ranger secondary can help give you an advantage, also for some accounts if you type /bonus only will you gain several weapons but a reusable summoning stone. The summoning stone summons a fire imp to fight with you.

Guild wars has made this a lot easier than it once was. The mobs now increase in level, while this may be the case, you will still have to hire a gate monkey or have a friend open the gate for you several times.

This title will take time, money and the right build to complete. For this title, I have found going necromancer or monk with the Ranger secondary makes this fairly easy. You may also try a Ranger primary with just about any second.

*Note: This has changed some what now, there is a daily quest that can be done now, from level 10 on, to get the experience you need to level up.

Survivor

While many are dreading this particular title, you can be assured that this will be one of the more simple ones to obtain, especially if one is running through the game for the first time. While this title needs 1,337,500 points in XP. This will be a fairly simple task. Though a very LONG one.

All you need is to save the books that give reputation points. Examples of this would be the dungeon guide, Shiro's handbook, Young Heroes of Tyria, Heroes Handbook, and many more.

You will need approximately 11 to 20 of these books to receive enough experience points to get this title in its entirety. The trick to this is to save that amount of books and turn them all in at the same time. This allows you to not have to worry about dieing. While banking the experience points in the books.

All other title tips

There are two main types of titles, the first is purchased titles.

Purchased titles are titles that are bought through gold for items they give you points in that title. An example of this is candy which goes towards your sweet tooth.

The second type of title are the worked for titles.

These titles you need to grind, beat missions, vanquish areas and much more. While this may all seem very difficult. Often times it's quite easy. For these titles a little elbow grease is all that is needed. Grinding for books, and waiting for special weekends, such as double point reputation weekends. All play a part in getting these titles quickly.

Keep an eye out for festivals. Often times these give party points, and other special points that go to titles.

Do not become frustrated. Not all titles will be needed to fill out your Hall of Monuments. Doing titles with friends or working on specialty missions that offer statues will quickly increase your points in the Hall of Monuments calculator.

A quick reminder you really only need 30 points in the calculator to get all of the freebie or bonus items for Guild Wars 2.

PVP Title

This title may seem to be one of the more difficult of the titles, but this one can be done very simply. A couple of different ways. One is through actual PVP (sorta). There is an island called Zaishen elite. If one uses a trapper build or in elementalist one can quickly go through this PVP type arena and gain 6000 Balthazar points which can be turned in for one zaishen key. All this is in a 24-hour period.

The second way is by doing the Zaishen bounties and saving up the copper coins and transferring them to silver and then into gold, then purchasing Zaishen keys. Each key is worth five Zaishen points. Once you get to 1000 Zaishen points you are able to put the Zaishen title in your Hall of Monuments.
